Application Developer and Server Administrator

Seeking an individual with strong working competence with Ruby on Rails to make minor modifications of a current application running on a Western Server. In addition, the individual will act as server administrator providing maintenance to the application, if necessary, and accessing the associated database files and providing the data to relevant stakeholders at regular intervals.

Competitive remuneration for the development work and administration work will be offered.

Interested parties should contact Dr. Dan Belliveau, School of Health Studies at dbellive@uwo.ca.

We will consider applications starting July 20.
