

Site Visit Report

Dear Friends,

To walk down the track to the trailer yesterday, Pat and I went heads down into a gut-wrenching, bone-chilling, mind-numbing blast of arctic air. It was humid enough to strip heat out of your forehead much faster than your system could resupply it. So your forehead would begin to freeze, becoming increasingly painful as the frost line sank down to your cerebrum (hence the mind-numbing part).

Anyway, nothing special in this report otherwise, except that Cam 1 took no pictures at all during the latest cycle. That was strange because it took one of me shortly after I changed cards.

Cheers (and warmth) to all

Kee

Let's try this form for a while:
(click on one)

Claris Works / Pages (apple)

Microsoft Word Format (windows or apple)